Press Release

Be part of the first National Drug Facts Week
 a new national health observance just for teens.
November 8–14, 2010

National Drug Facts Week (NDFW) is an opportunity for teens to shatter the myths about drug abuse and to get answers from a scientific expert.

To help you, NIDA provides a step-by-step how-to kit, including a list of fun activities, instructions on how to receive our NEW drug facts booklet to distribute at events, assistance in finding a scientific expert in your community, an online interactive quiz, and much more!

But we need you to make it happen. Encourage teens to organize an event during NDFW and support them by being an adult advisor and registering an event with NIDA.
